LESBIAN BATHHOUSE

By Helen Eisenbach

With the voice of Harry Shearer

Assembly @ George 22.40hrs

EDINBURGH PREMIERE

Where can you go when you're feeling a little dirty?

Your producer wants to bed you, your co-star is the one that got away, the entire cast is playing musical beds and your director thinks HE's a lesbian. Just another day at work for an actress looking for her big break

Hollywood auteur Rod LaSelle is at a crossroad. The director of such renowned films as Love Burns, Rod finds himself confronting some extremely personal demons. Drawn to the live nature of theatre, he and his power-playing right-hand-woman, Renee, decide to stage an original drama to help him work through his issues.

For the cast of Rod's as-yet-unwritten masterpiece, Renee assembles a promisingly eclectic mix of beautiful raw material. At the centre is Grace, an eternally hopeful actress who's had her share of ups and downs. Getting a starring role is a dream come true—until she meets her new co-star, a seductive free spirit who also happens to be Grace's ex—the one who got away. The plots thicken as each addition to the cast brings her own set of charms and challenges...topped off by Renee, a walking id used to getting everything she wants from Hollywood and every woman within arms' reach.

As the actresses bring Rod's wild fantasies to life on stage, their off-stage antics start to get out of hand. When matters spiral out of control before Rod's eyes, complications come to a head, and something's got to give...
